The primary role of the Student Government Association Vice President is to cast a vision of success for the Student Senate, one providing them with the necessary tools for success. The role requires a passionate advocate who will champion the student experience with faculty and administration.

Personally, my college career at Auburn has been shaped by the different students I have met and worked with. Through these relationships, I have gained invaluable experience and knowledge that have equipped me with the necessary skills to serve the student body.

If elected SGA Vice President, I will humbly listen to and relentlessly advocate for every individual student. I will lead the Student Senate, building on the foundation laid by previous SGA administrations and exceeding what is expected of SGA. Moreover, I commit myself to accurately amplifying the student voice through three main goals.

Streamlining Outreach and Feedback Assessment
SGA has recently utilized channels like Auburn Answers and Town Halls to improve ways student feedback is garnered. While this is a positive step for addressing campus concerns, I want to see senators at the forefront of these efforts. I aim to increase involvement, garner more student feedback, and tirelessly advocate for positive, real change on campus. This includes adding college-specific outreach days throughout the semester and repurposing Senate office hours to be more effective.

Additionally, I will motivate senators to concentrate on the day-to-day concerns of students. I vow to change the narrative, serving as an intermediary between Senate-Cabinet and Senate-Faculty relations, while constantly promoting the individual student.

Revamping the Structure and Terms of Senate
Previous Vice Presidents expanded the Student Senate to improve representation on campus by adding non-voting liaisons and new voting senators. I will continue building on this solid foundation, ensuring the Legislative Branch of SGA continuously becomes more representative of the student body’s needs and concerns. Additionally, the timing of the February-to-February Senate terms and University breaks can hinder Senate’s ability to pass necessary legislation in a timely manner.

I aim to update Senate committees and their roles to reflect the changing representation in the student body while working with administration to assess the efficiency of Senate terms. I believe restructuring Senate will simultaneously improve student-body representation and the student experience.

Exceeding Excellence
Faculty, staff, and students have helped establish Auburn University as an excellent institution, consistently improving representation on campus. While Auburn’s SGA has proven it is one of the preeminent programs in the southeast, there is more we can do. It is our job, not just to govern the student body, but to supply the necessary means for students to exceed in academics, society, and their future careers. I am committed to serving the student body, striving towards excellence, and providing the best possible higher-education experience for each individual student. My experiences at Auburn have shaped who I am, and because of that, I am confident I can lead SGA in both an equitable and inclusive way – one characterized by representation, efficiency, and accountability – thereby exceeding excellence.
