ePortfolio Project Ambassador Program

ePortfolio Ambassadors are the student voice of the ePortfolio Project. They help promote the use of ePortfolios at Auburn University by: (1) making their own ePortfolio, (2) visiting classes and student organizations, and (3) attending ePortfolio Project events. All students are welcome to apply. Students from all majors and years are invited to participate. Prior experience with websites or portfolios is not necessary.

Responsibilities
Students can expect to devote approximately four hours per month to the ePortfolio Project Ambassador Program. Ambassadors will:

- Attend monthly meetings
- Visit classes and student organizations
- Attend approximately two events each semester
- Escort guests around campus
- Provide feedback on decisions being made about the overall project

Opportunities (Not required, but optional)
- Help students and faculty create an ePortfolio
- Facilitate workshop activities
- Participate in committees
- Create promotional materials (videos/flyers/web content)
- Attend and/or present at regional, national, and international conferences

Training
Ambassadors are trained over the course of three days. Training is scheduled for May 18-19, 2015 and August 12, 2015. The May session guides students through the process of creating a professional ePortfolio. Students who complete the entire ePortfolio Student Workshop Series are exempt from this training. The August session provides students with strategies to promote ePortfolios to different campus audiences.
Application Process
Auburn University undergraduate and graduate students in good standing are encouraged to apply. Ideal candidates will demonstrate a commitment to project goals and exhibit leadership qualities.

Applicants will need to provide:

- A statement of interest
- A resume
- An unofficial transcript
- The names, positions, and contact information for two individuals who have agreed to provide comments on your leadership potential, interpersonal skills, and work ethic.
