Position Description

Miller Writing Center consultants are the primary providers of support to student writing at Auburn University. Consultants assist students with writing through one-on-one and small group tutoring sessions; help students make accounts and schedule appointments in the online scheduling system (WC Online); and promote the writing center through class presentations, information tables, and other events. The successful candidate should have strong writing, communication, organizational, and time management skills. Consultants have the opportunity to apply for leadership positions, serve on committees, and complete special projects.

Responsibilities:
- Work with students across disciplines on a range of writing projects
- Work regular weekly shifts as assigned
- Attend mandatory staff training in August
- Participate in weekly professional development meetings
- Complete Client Report Forms following sessions
- Maintain the confidentiality of student records
- Communicate clearly, quickly, and responsibly with the administrative team

Qualifications:
- Undergraduate or graduate student in good standing at Auburn University
- Demonstrated ability or potential to talk productively about writing with students across disciplines

Expectations and Compensation

Time Commitment:
Students are expected to work between 5-20 hours/week (depending on their schedule and preference) in the fall and spring semesters. Preference will be given to candidates who are willing to work at least 7 hours/week. Renewal is possible.

Training Requirements:
New consultants are required to attend one day of training in August. Refer to the online application for the specific date and time. Candidates who are not available for training this year should consider applying next year.

Compensation:
Undergraduate consultants will receive an hourly wage of $9/hour with $0.25/hour increases in subsequent years. Graduate consultants will earn $15/hour.
